DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 4, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Silverbrook (US 6443555) in view of Torgerson (US 6722759).

Silverbrook discloses the following claim limitations:

As per claim 5: a body (figure 15, element 1) configured for user insertion and removal from a complementary cradle in an inkjet printer (figure 3, element 56); printing fluid storage mounted to the body (figure 11, element 6); a pagewidth printhead mounted to the body for printing a media substrate when inserted in the complementary cradle (figure 15, element 3), the pagewidth printhead having a first print chip and a second print chip (figure 15), the first print chip and the second print chip each having an array of nozzles fabricated on monolithic substrates (column 6, lines 12-18 and figure 15); and a fluid connection between the printing fluid storage and the first and second print chips (figure 19).

As per claim 2: the first and second printhead chips abut together (figure 19).

Silverbrook does not disclose the following claim limitations:

As per claim 5: the length of the first print chip added to the length of the second print chip is at least equal to the length of the pagewidth printhead (see figure 2).

As per claim 2: the first and second print chips abut together to extend the length of the printhead (figure 2, element 181).

As per claim 4: electrical connectors (figure 2, element 74) located at opposing ends of the printhead and in electrical communication with the first and second print chips (column 5, line 43-column 6, line 2).

Response to Arguments

Applicants argue that Silverbrook does not disclose a pagewidth printhead and ink storage mounted to a body configured for user insertion and removal from the printer cradle; however, as cited above, the examiner disagrees. The printer cradle, element 56, holds both inkjet ink storage, element 6, and a printhead mounted to a body for printing a media substrate, element 3. Element 3 is one printhead that is pagewidth, each unit is removable. The claim does not specifically state how the printhead is removable, thus the current rejection reads on the claim.

Applicant argues that Torgerson does not teach a printer cartridge with two print chips fabricated on a monolithic wafer; however this is taught by Silverbrook. Torgerson is used to teach the length of the first print chip added to the length of the second print chip is at least equal to the length of the pagewidth printhead.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 2853
